Some Primary Sources for WWI
(In addition to those on the course guide: http://libguides.wustl.edu/WWI)

Government-related documents

Robertson, William Robert. Military correspondence of Field-Marshal Sir William Robertson,
Chief of the Imperial General Staff, December 1915-February 1918. Edited by David R.
(Olin Level 3: DA566.9 R63 A4 1989)

(Olin Level 3: D505 G68)

Documents and statements relating to peace proposals & war aims (December 1916-November

Miscellaneous documentary collections

(Olin Level 3: D521 W33 1990)

Fall of the German Empire, 1914-1918, 2 vols. Edited by Ralph Haswell Lutz; translations by David G. Rempel and Gertrude Rendtorff. Stanford University, 1932.
(Olin Level 3: DD228.8 .F34 1932)

New York & London: Century, 1927. [Note: "The material for this book is taken from various places, but largely from two newspapers, the 'Reich' and the 'Izvestiia'."—Pref.]
(Olin Level 3: DK251 G6)

Microfilm Collections
“During and after the First World War Godlee was extremely active on the central medical war committee and was chairman of the Belgian doctors' and pharmacists' relief fund.”

“Godlee married in 1891 Juliet Mary, eldest daughter of Frederic Seebohm, banker and historian, of The Hermitage, Hitchin; they had no children.”

Personal Narratives

Ross, Ishobel. The Little Grey Partridge: First World War diary of Ishobel Ross who served with the Scottish Women's Hospital Unit in Serbia. Aberdeen University, 1988 (Olin Level 3: D629 S4 R6 1988)

Marty Cavanaugh
Olin Library Research Services
mcgocubs@wustl.edu; 935-7365
10/18/2016